HIS 242H1-S
Europe in the Contemporary Era
Winter 2002-2003
Professor Eric Jennings
Time: Lectures: TR 1
Location: Bader Theatre, Victoria College
Office: 310 Northrop Frye Hall
Office Hours: T 4-6
Phone: 416-585-4431
This course explores the history of twentieth century Europe. It surveys the watersheds of the last century in Europe, from the Russian Revolution to the two world wars, to the rise of the EEC, while also paying close attention to a series of social and cultural themes, including gender, cultures, minorities and decolonization. A number of case studies and problems will be broached in lectures, and taken up again in tutorials. Through this balanced analysis, students should learn about more than just the history of 'great people', and should leave the course with a greater understanding of some of the underlying themes of the twentieth century. Nor will this course stop in 1945 or 1968, it aspires to take us to the end of the twentieth century.
Required Readings:
Students will be required to read the following texts, all available at the University of Toronto Bookstore.
